THE Great THANKSGIVING LISTEN

TEACHER TOOLKIT

2019

WITH SUPPORT FROM

Morgan Stanley

Dear Teachers,

This year marks the fifth Great Thanksgiving Listen. For the past four years, we have all been working together—teachers, students, and StoryCorps—to create a culture of listening across the United States with the simple concept of asking students to honor someone in their lives with an interview over the Thanksgiving holiday.

If this is your first Great Listen, welcome! And if this is your fifth, welcome back! Either way, thank you for downloading the 2019 Great Thanksgiving Listen Teacher Toolkit, for doing this work with us, and for being a part of this movement. You are helping us transform the holidays into a time of intergenerational sharing. Thanks to you, students will perform the powerful act of sitting across from a grandparent, a sibling, a mentor, or a friend for 40 minutes, asking important questions, and listening carefully to their answers.

We put together this Toolkit to help support your efforts this fall, taking advantage of the intergenerational moments inherent on Thanksgiving and during the holiday season. That said, the integration of StoryCorps into your lesson plans isn't timebound. Please use these resources as you see fit all year long and in whatever way best suits your needs!

Here are some tips on how to use this Toolkit:

- ➔ Go digital. Run the web-based version of this Toolkit directly from your smartboard, including our recommended animations and stories to get started.
- ➔ Explore our collection. Invite students to find their own examples of great edited clips and animations in the “stories” section of storycorps.org and thousands of unedited full-length stories at archive.storycorps.org. Students can search by location, themed collection, or keyword.
- ➔ Introduce the App early. Students can complete this entire project through the App interface and their corresponding user accounts at archive.storycorps.org. Students can prep interview questions, summaries, and keywords directly in the App so they are ready to go on interview day.
- ➔ Create a Community. Based on your feedback, we have introduced new features at archive.storycorps.org that allow you to create a Community for your classroom. Collect your students' stories in one place, create custom question lists, track interview progress, and easily host a listening party post-Thanksgiving weekend.

If you'd like to hear from fellow educators or share your own experiences and tips for The Great Thanksgiving Listen, head over to the StoryCorps in the Classroom Facebook group.

The Great Thanksgiving Listen is a growing national movement to collect the voices of this country and to recognize the importance of intergenerational listening. Thanks for joining us this year.

Warm regards,

Dave Isay | President and Founder, StoryCorps

LESSON PLAN

PARTICIPATING IN THE GREAT THANKSGIVING LISTEN

For this project, students will learn about the importance of storytelling and use the StoryCorps App to record an interview with an elder in their family or community over the holiday.

Storytelling and the gift of listening are critical skills for young people. This project offers the opportunity to realize a simple idea: young people can honor someone in their lives with an interview. They can sit across from a grandparent, a sibling, a mentor, or a friend for 40 minutes, ask important questions, and listen carefully to their answers.

We invite you to adapt these resources in whatever way best suits your needs. We recommend introducing the project at least two weeks prior to Thanksgiving to provide time for students to plan their interviews and practice using the StoryCorps App.

Join our StoryCorps in the Classroom Facebook group to share examples of how you will use The Great Listen in your classroom and to hear from other educators who are doing the same: facebook.com/groups/storycorps

TARGET GRADE LEVEL: 9–12

TIME NEEDED:

- 2–5 hours in class. Most parts of the lesson can be structured for in-class or at-home assignments.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Meaningful conversations stem from asking great questions. Use our Food for Thought suggestions throughout this lesson plan or think of your own.

PART I: ABOUT STORYCORPS / WHY DO STORIES MATTER?

Food for Thought

Share a story you've heard that feels important to you. What makes that story valuable?

Introduce students to StoryCorps and The Great Thanksgiving Listen using a selection of the following videos, animations, podcasts, and the StoryCorps mission statement.

As a follow-up, or in place of this suggested list, invite students to explore storycorps.org or archive.storycorps.org and search by location, themed collection, or keyword.

All videos and content in this playlist can be found at thegreatlisten.org.

Food for Thought

What can you learn by listening to someone else's story?

ANIMATIONS

- ▶ "An Intro to StoryCorps from Our Founder Dave Isay" (3 min.)
- ▶ "No More Questions" (4 min.)
- ▶ "Eyes on the Stars" (3 min.)
- ▶ "Clean Streets" (3 min.)
- ▶ "The Icing on the Cake" (3 min.)

FURTHER INSPIRATION

Watch these intergenerational animated stories in your classroom as inspiration leading up to Thanksgiving, or invite your students to watch and share a story with the person they are going to interview.

PART II: GREAT INTERVIEWS / GREAT QUESTIONS

Food for Thought

What's one interviewing skill you'll make sure to remember when you're conducting your own interview? Why is that one important?

Prepare students to conduct great interviews by selecting and asking “Great Questions,” identifying an interview partner, and creating thoughtful titles, summaries, and keywords for future historians and researchers.

Students can complete this entire project through the StoryCorps App interface and their corresponding user accounts at archive.storycorps.org. Students can select interview and create questions, summaries and keywords directly in the App, so they are ready to go on interview day.

→ Distribute the Make History with StoryCorps handout as an overview of the project for students and as a reference for their recording partners.

Food for Thought

How can you show that you're truly listening to the person you're interviewing?

→ Prepare students for their interviews by choosing a recording partner, making a plan for interview day, and identifying great questions to ask. We have three different tools to support this:

☐ Great Questions Generator in the StoryCorps App

☐ Great Questions handout

☐ Interview Planning Worksheet

→ Students will need to reach out to their recording partner in advance to plan a date, location, and time for their interview. When contacting their recording partners, students should describe The Great Listen and provide a few sample questions to let their partners prepare for the upcoming interview.

→ Learn how to download and use the StoryCorps App by practicing in class, and use the resources on our App page.

→ Emphasize the importance of creating a thoughtful interview title, summary, and set of keywords (after recording) by reviewing the Using the App / Keywording 101 handout.

INTERVIEW PRACTICE ACTIVITY (IN CLASS):

Food for Thought

How do you feel when you think about conducting your own interview?
Nervous?
Confident?
Excited? Why?

→ Watch the animated videos below.

“Q and A” (4 min.)

“Four Tips for an Effective Interview” (2 min.)

“Tips for Active Listening” (4 min.)

“The StoryCorps App: A Recipe for Success” (1 min.)

→ Pair students up randomly and designate one as partner A and the other as partner B.

Food for Thought

What's a great example of a follow-up question?

→ Using the Great Question Generator in the StoryCorps App, at archive.storycorps.org, or the Great Questions handout, instruct each student to select 3–4 questions to ask their interview partner.

→ Remind students to use the skills they learned in the videos and to ask follow-up questions (e.g., Can you tell me more about that? Why do you think that happened? What do you mean by that?).

→ Practice interviewing! Partner A should start by asking questions to partner B. Switch after 3–5 minutes: Partner B asks questions to partner A.

Tip: Use this opportunity for students to practice recording directly in the app, then ask them to enter a title, summary, and keywords and to upload their interviews to your classroom “Community” on archive.storycorps.org.

DEBRIEF: Facilitate a short discussion using the following prompts:

What is one thing your partner did during the interview that was effective?

What challenges or surprises did you encounter during your interview, and how did you work to address them?

What is the significance of what you talked about during your interview?

What is one thing from this practice interview that you want to remember for when you conduct your interview over Thanksgiving?

PART III: CONDUCT AN INTERVIEW

Now that students know how to be great interviewers and listeners, use the StoryCorps App, and write thoughtful titles and keywords, they are ready to record!

Food for Thought

Imagine you're the one being interviewed. What questions would you like to be asked? Why?

Food for Thought

While conducting your interview, do you think any difficult topics might come up? If so, what makes them difficult? Make a plan for working through it.

- Use the Recipes for Success on Interview Day handout as a take-home resource for students.
- Assign students to conduct their interview over Thanksgiving weekend. Remind them to make a plan with their recording partner in advance.
- A complete interview requires the names of the people participating in the interview, the location where the interview took place, a photo, a title, a summary, and keywords.
- Following the interview, students should add keywords, an updated title, and an extended summary to their interview on the app or by logging into their StoryCorps Archive account from a computer, classroom tablet, or other device.
- With their recording partner, students should discuss privacy preferences for their interview before uploading it to the StoryCorps Archive.
 - Students should familiarize themselves with the three settings available to them and their partner, which can be found on the Recipes for Success on Interview Day handout.
 - Students who publish their interviews should email teachers the link to the interview.
 - Students who do not publish their interview should still turn in a proposed title, summary, and keywords for their interview, as well as the length of time of their interview.

Pro Tip: There are lots of ways to participate in this project. If a student does not have access a smartphone or does not have permission to use the app, they can still complete the project using any digital recorder, or they can conduct an unrecorded interview. They should still use the worksheets and to complete the assignment turn in a proposed title, summary, and keywords for their interview, as well as the length of time of their interview.

PART IV: CLOSING/DEBRIEF

Facilitate a discussion among participating students using the following questions:

- ? How did your partner react to the interview experience?
- ? How did you feel as an interviewer? What challenges or surprises did you encounter, and how did you work to address them?
- ? Did you have the chance to go “off script” and ask a follow-up question? If so, what question did you ask, and how did that change your interview?
- ? What question evoked a particularly memorable response?
- ? What did you learn that changed the way you previously thought about an event, person, or your recording partner?
- ? What makes an interview different from a text as a historical reference?
- ? What components contribute to differing perspectives of history?
- ? What could future historians learn from listening to your interview?
- ? What would you do differently if you were to conduct another interview?
- ? Who else in your life would you like to interview?
- ? What questions would you like to be asked in an interview?

WAYS TO USE STORYCORPS IN YOUR CLASSROOM

- Include recording and interviews in your lesson plans.
- Utilize the lessons found in this Toolkit and on TheGreatListen.org.
- Share your interviews with us @StoryCorps with the tag #TheGreatListen.
- Listen to your interview again.
- Watch the Intergenerational Stories playlist with your family at home, and then share some of the stories that make your family unique (use the app to record the conversation, if you like!).
- Write a reflection paper, a follow-up essay, or a poem inspired by your interview.
- Transcribe a part of your interview, and/or use quotes from your interview to support another project or research paper.
- Create a video inspired by a TED Talk with Adobe Spark Video based on the process of preparing for and conducting an interview, and present it to the class.
- Edit your interview using free editing software (such as Audacity) to create a two-minute excerpt.
- Produce a podcast of your interviews using excerpts from different interviews.
- Create a visual storyboard of the process of preparing for and conducting the interview, plus what was learned, and present it to the class.
- Draw or paint a portrait of your partner inspired by your interview with them.
- Hold an assembly to highlight favorite stories from your class.
- Use the app to investigate a social issue in your community (make a list of “sources” you’d like to interview).
- Coordinate with your school or local library to start an oral history project.

EXTRA CREDIT FOR TEACHERS

Host a classroom listening party. Use the “Community” feature on archive.storycorps.org to collect your students’ stories in one central place, and then invite students to share out a 2–3 minute clip from each interview.

Learn more about the Community feature and hear tips from other educators in the StoryCorps in the Classroom Facebook group: facebook.com/groups/storycorps

FAST FACTS & BACKGROUND

ABOUT THE GREAT THANKSGIVING LISTEN

The Great Thanksgiving Listen is a national movement that empowers young people—and people of all ages—to create an oral history of the contemporary United States by recording an interview with an elder using the free StoryCorps App.

Interviews become part of the StoryCorps Archive at the American Folklife Center at the Library of Congress, where they will serve as an invaluable resource for future historians.

Now in its fifth year, The Great Thanksgiving Listen is a rapidly growing national movement to collect the voices of this country and recognize the importance of intergenerational listening. To date, thousands of high schools from all 50 states have participated and preserved more than 150,000 interviews, providing families with a priceless piece of personal history.

The project is a free, technology-based assignment originally developed for students age 13 and over studying American History, Social Studies, English, Language Arts, Journalism, Drama, ESL, Media and Technology. It has also been applied successfully as an extracurricular and community-building opportunity in classrooms, universities, OST environments, community centers, living rooms, and kitchens across the country.

This Toolkit, and our website at thegreatlisten.org, contains everything you need to get started. We look forward to making history with you!

ABOUT STORYCORPS

Founded in 2003 by Dave Isay, StoryCorps has given over 500,000 people—Americans of all backgrounds and beliefs, in towns and cities in all 50 states—the chance to record interviews about their lives. The organization preserves the recordings in its archive at the Library of Congress, the largest single collection of human voices ever gathered, and shares select stories with the public through StoryCorps' weekly podcast, NPR broadcasts, animated shorts, digital platforms, and best-selling books. These powerful human stories reflect the vast range of American experiences, wisdom, and values; engender empathy and connection; and remind us how much more we have in common than divides us.

ABOUT THE STORYCORPS APP AND STORYCORPS ARCHIVE

Launched with support from the 2015 TED Prize and the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation, our free mobile app puts the StoryCorps experience entirely in your hands so that you can record and archive a meaningful conversation with anyone, anywhere.

The app guides users through the interview experience, from start to finish, with easy-to-use tools to help you prepare interview questions, record high-quality conversations on your mobile device, and to upload the audio to the StoryCorps Archive.

The StoryCorps Archive is the largest single collection of human voices, featuring conversations recorded in all 50 states and Puerto Rico. The full collection of interviews is housed at the American Folklife Center at the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C.

Visit archive.storycorps.org to access a selection of the interviews shared by people who have recorded a conversation with StoryCorps since 2003. This site represents a growing archive: new interviews are added every day by StoryCorps and by people from across the country and around the world. It was developed as a resource for the public and people who have recorded with StoryCorps, as well as students, educators, researchers, noncommercial media makers, community partner organizations, and others involved in scholarly or cultural work.

FAST FACTS & PRIVACY SETTINGS

The Great Thanksgiving Listen is a technology-based assignment originally developed for high school students studying American History, Social Studies, English, Language Arts, Journalism, Drama, ESL, Media and Technology. It has also been applied successfully as an extracurricular and community-building opportunity in classrooms, OST environments, community centers, living rooms, and kitchens across the country.

The best place to get in touch with questions and to share resources for this project is the StoryCorps in the Classroom Facebook group. If you are having technical issues, please visit our Help Center at storycorps.org.

You and your students can follow @StoryCorps on Twitter, Instagram, and Facebook and share interviews and posts about the project using #TheGreatListen.

We invite you to adapt the Great Listen lesson plan and multimedia resources in whatever way best suits your needs. We recommend introducing the project at least two weeks prior to Thanksgiving to provide time for participants to plan their interviews and practice using the StoryCorps App.

THE ASSIGNMENT (IN A NUTSHELL)

The StoryCorps App is a free mobile application that seamlessly walks young people through a StoryCorps interview by providing all the necessary tools, including help in preparing questions, finding the right environment for a conversation, and features to record a high-quality interview.

Young people can publish their completed interview to the StoryCorps website and add it to the StoryCorps Archive at the Library of Congress, where it will be available for future generations to access. The complete interview is also shareable with teachers, friends, and family via the StoryCorps website.

SUGGESTED EQUIPMENT

Participants will need access to a smartphone (Apple iPhone or Android device) or Kindle tablet with both the latest device software and the most recent version of the free StoryCorps App. The StoryCorps App can be downloaded through the App Store, Google Play, or Amazon Store. Make sure your students are using version 3.3 or higher of the app.

Participants will need desktop or smartphone access to the StoryCorps website either at home or in the classroom, as well as a strong Wi-Fi signal to upload interviews.

iPads are not recommended for use with the StoryCorps App.

StoryCorps does not recommend students use a shared classroom device.

For students without access to a device or without parental consent (see below), teachers can easily modify The Great Listen to allow for basic participation. Modifications are noted in the lesson plan.

Currently, the StoryCorps App prompts users in English; participants may record in any language.

PARENTAL CONSENT & PRIVACY SETTINGS

Under the app's terms of use: Children under the age of 13 may not participate in The Great Listen, and parental consent is required for people under the age of 18 to register for a StoryCorps App account. You can review the App's full terms of use at archive.storycorps.org/terms-of-use.

If you choose to require a parental permission slip, we have included a sample one here that you can easily customize to your needs. (Please note: The permission slip is for school/community use only and should not be submitted to StoryCorps.)

After recording, students will have the option to publish their interviews. If published, the interviews will be entered in the StoryCorps Archive in the American Folklife Center at the Library of Congress and appear publicly online at StoryCorps.org. If the students do not want to publish their interviews, they can save the interviews to their devices. (Please note: Only interviews published to the StoryCorps website are archived at the Library of Congress.) Students and other participants should not be required to publish their interviews publicly to receive credit. This is to preserve participant privacy. Please see our privacy setting recommendations for those who prefer to keep their recordings private.

USER-GENERATED CONTENT

The StoryCorps App and website contain user-generated content that is not reviewed before it is posted online. While we adhere to a strict set of Community Guidelines and work to maintain a culture of tolerance and acceptance, not all published content will be appropriate for all individuals. We also have a flagging mechanism in place to help further identify content that violates our Community Guidelines. We ask teachers, educators, and caregivers to familiarize themselves with the StoryCorps Archive, to review the Community Guidelines listed at archive.storycorps.org, and to use discretion in adopting the project.

Connect directly with other educators and StoryCorps staff in our StoryCorps in the Classroom Facebook group and find answers to your technical support questions in our Help Center at storycorps.org.

Dear Parents,

Over the coming weeks, our class will be participating in a national program created by StoryCorps called The Great Thanksgiving Listen.

Using near-universally accessible smartphone technology, students will record an interview with a grandparent or other elder using the free StoryCorps App to foster meaningful connections within families, communities, and the classroom, and create a firsthand archive of American history and wisdom.

In order for your child to participate in The Great Thanksgiving Listen, you must acknowledge that they are not under the age of 13. If your child is under the age of 18, they will need your consent to register for an account on the app or archive platform in accordance with the terms of use.

I understand that this project will include my child recording an interview with an elder and taking a picture with that individual. I understand that with the consent of all interview participants, my child will have the option to publish the interview and photograph online to a public website at archive.storycorps.org. I understand that the publication of the interview and photograph will result in them both being archived in the American Folklife Center at the Library of Congress.

I also understand that publishing an interview online is not a requirement for credit in this project and that my child will have the option to keep the interview and/or photograph private if they or their interview partner desire.

I hereby give permission for (student's name) to participate in The Great Thanksgiving Listen.

MAKE HISTORY WITH StoryCorps

LET'S MAKE HISTORY TOGETHER

Welcome to The Great Thanksgiving Listen! By participating in this project, you will join thousands of students across the United States in interviewing an elder over Thanksgiving weekend using the StoryCorps App. If you choose, you and your recording partner will have the option to enter your recording into the StoryCorps archive in the American Folklife Center at the Library of Congress, where your interview will become a primary source for current and future historians. You will also have a chance to keep your conversation private if you prefer.

ABOUT THE AMERICAN FOLKLIFE CENTER AT THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

The StoryCorps Archive is housed in the American Folklife Center at the Library of Congress. The Library is the nation's first established cultural institution and the largest library in the world, with millions of items, including books, recordings, photographs, maps, and manuscripts, in its collections.

This project offers you and someone you know the unique opportunity to create a new record and preserve it as part of the Library's collections for generations to come.

Getting Started

- You will need access to a smartphone (iPhone or Android) or Kindle tablet and to download the free StoryCorps App to participate. You must be 13 or over to use the app; if you are under 18, you need parental consent to create an account on the StoryCorps App.
- Your StoryCorps App account and password will be the same for logging into the StoryCorps Archive at archive.storycorps.org, a public website where published interviews can be found online. If you decide to publish your interview, this is where it will go.
- Get comfortable with the app before recording the conversation of a lifetime! Download the app, register for an account with parental permission, record and publish a 10-second test, and log in to your StoryCorps Archive account from a desktop computer to view your test online. You will receive an email from StoryCorps when your file has uploaded.
- Experiment with editing the title, summary, and keywords of a test interview from a desktop computer or your app.
- Prepare for your interview by reading this sheet all the way through and using the Interview Planning Worksheet and Great Questions List.

USING THE APP + KEYWORDING 101

TITLE, SUMMARY, AND KEYWORDS

After you conduct your official interview, you will want to give it a great title, summarize it, and add keywords (like tags) to make it easier for your friends and family to find it online. Just like using a # hashtag on social media, tagging your StoryCorps interview connects your story with the stories of others across cities, countries, and cultures. These details will add to the historical archive and serve as guideposts for future scholars who will use keywords to search for and discover your interview in the Library of Congress's digital collections. This section provides some tips on writing great titles, summaries, and keywords.

→ Title: Interview titles are one sentence and refer to the main idea of the interview.

Example: John Grey and his friend Virginia Brown talk about growing up in Montgomery, Alabama.

→ Summary: Summaries are 4–5 sentence descriptions of the interview. Include the location and date of the interview, the names and basic autobiographical details of the participants, and a general overview of the topics discussed.

Example: In this interview, conducted in November 2016 in Montgomery, Alabama, John Grey (17) interviews his friend and neighbor Virginia Brown (82) about her childhood in the city they both call home. Ms. Brown shares stories about her involvement in the civil rights movement and the effects of the Vietnam War on her family. She also talks about her favorite hobbies as a child (swimming) and as an adult (cooking), and at minute 38 she discloses the secret to her legendary peach pie. At the end of the discussion, Ms. Brown and Mr. Grey share their wishes for the future.

→ Keywords: Keywords should include basic places, people, occupations, names of events (especially historical events), and any other important themes or concepts mentioned in the interview.

Example: Montgomery, AL, civil rights, civil rights movement, Vietnam War, hobbies, swimming, cooking, peach pie, wishes for the future, neighbors, friendship, Booker T. Washington Magnet High School, TheGreatListen2019

- Try to provide 5–15 keywords
- If you record in a language other than English, enter that language as a keyword (e.g., Spanish, Mandarin, Arabic).
- Enter your keywords, along with TheGreatListen2019, in the “general” keywords field. Add your state abbreviation (e.g., AK, CA, TX) in the “places” field.

Pro Tip: To edit your title, summary, image and keywords from a desktop computer, log in to your account at archive.storycorps.org, and click on the edit icon in the upper right-hand corner of the interview. To edit from a smartphone, log in to the app, click on (⋮) in the lower right-hand corner of your interview, and choose “Edit Info.”

RECIPES FOR SUCCESS ON INTERVIEW DAY

INTERVIEW DAY

Now that you know how to use the app and write great titles, summaries, and keywords, you're almost ready to record! Prepare your questions and read through the checklist below before the big day so that you know what to expect.

The app has a built-in timer and question selection mechanism. You can follow the prompts in the app or use your worksheets as a guide during your conversation.

- Prepare your questions in advance, but be ready to ask follow-up questions and go “off script” if you hear something interesting.
- Try to find a quiet place to conduct your interview.
- Ask your partner for permission to record them before you start.
- Begin your recording by introducing yourself, and ask your partner to introduce themselves. State the location, date, and year where and when you are conducting the interview (e.g., Today is November 24, 2019, and we are in Grandpa's living room in Lexington, KY.).
- The app will prompt you to take a picture with your partner. If you'd prefer, you can take a picture of an old photograph of your partner or a piece of paper with the interview date on it.

Pro Tip: If you are using your phone to record an interview, put it in airplane mode and close any other apps you may have open.

PRIVACY & CONSENT TO BE RECORDED

- After your interview, discuss these privacy setting options with your partner:

(1) Choose to publish the interview and photo. Both will appear on the StoryCorps website and be transmitted to the Library of Congress. There are three privacy options when publishing your interview:

Everyone: Your interview and related information are available to anyone on the web.

Archive Users: Your interview and related information are available to anyone with an account on the StoryCorps Archive.

Only You: Your interview and related information are private.

(2) Choose NOT to publish the interview. The audio file and photo will remain saved locally on the device. It will not be uploaded to the Library of Congress.

Pro Tip: If you have trouble publishing over Wi-Fi (don't worry, it happens sometimes!), check out our Help Center at storycorps.org for step-by-step guidance on extracting the audio file from your device and manually uploading it from a desktop or laptop computer.

- For students who publish: After uploading, visit archive.storycorps.org and log in to your account from a desktop or your mobile device. You can edit your title, summary, and keywords and email your teacher a link to the interview.
- For students who choose not to publish: If you decide to keep your interview private (or participated using a digital recorder), email your teacher with the interview duration and provide a sample title, summary, and keywords.
- Remember to thank your recording partner and send them a link to your published interview.

Pro Tip: You are welcome to conduct as many interviews as you like.

Pro Tip: If you change your mind after recording, you can remove your interview from public view by logging in to your account at archive.storycorps.org and changing your setting to private.
